HOW CAN YOU SPOT IF YOUR CHILD IS 'READING-SNIFFING' GLUE? —see page 8

HOW TO SPOT THE TELL-TALE SIGNS

PARENTS ARE the people who know best about the habits of their children. And yet they should be playing a vital role in the fight to stamp it out.

So what are the signs they should be looking for? This is the question we put to Dr Mary Gardner of Lofthouse's Health Board.

She said parents should look for a staggering walk and staring out about the eyes.

The 56-year-old interprets massive mood swings. "He can be very cheerful at one time and depressed and withdrawn at another. This all depends on whether or not he is under the influence of a drug."

He often looks around after he is in his room. There is a desire to isolate himself during the hangover stage which can be very severe. He can lose his weight.

Dr Gardner said to go off their food and use their hairbrush, brush, clothing and bathroom also smell of the glue.

Dr Gardner advised that parents should speak to the child about their suspicions and if proved correct contact the family doctor for advice.

QUOTE

"Parents must be told about the dangers — so that they can help the young people."

If anyone ever needs any posters or merch designing then hit me up! Looking for commissions and to get more of my shit out there, as at the moment it's entirely for my own band and promotion stuff. Here's a few of my posters and more of my work over at <https://dribbble.com/lurkmoophy>

Hey dude! Love your artwork, how much do you charge for gig posters?

You can now call each other and see information such as Active Status and when you've read messages.

Sounds silly, but I'm not sure. Never charged for gig posters before! £150 per poster? Is that reasonable?

Only ever done commercial work, which is done by day rate and much more so I'm not sure where to pitch it!

Ahh fair play! I have a few people who do them for me at £30, I don't know if that's too low?

The designs look great though!

Hey pickle! Step right up and witness the greatest show on Earth*

September 27 2024

WDC is a grassroots community conference for anyone who makes stuff for the web. Join us for a day of talks, chats and laughs, and an evening of more chats and more laughs.

The illustration features several anthropomorphic pickles and a mouse character. On the left, a tall pickle stands with a smaller one. In the center, a mouse character is holding hands with a tall pickle. On the right, a mouse character is riding a carousel horse, with a tall pickle standing next to it. The background shows a fairground with a castle-like structure and a sign that reads "CSS Carousel ALL ABOARD!".
